

#StevenHoll

A watercolor architectural sketch of a lobby. The space is characterized by large, organic, and flowing forms. A prominent feature is a large, curved, light-colored structure that resembles a giant's hand or a large, curved wall. The floor is a mix of yellow and grey tones. Several small figures of people in various colors (red, blue, green, purple) are scattered throughout the space, providing a sense of scale. The overall style is soft and painterly.
